

To the FCC commissioners,

I live near the Charleston SC market. All television stations are owned by outside corporations. Almost all (maybe all) radio stations are owned by outside corporations. I do not believe the public is served.

The FCC was created to make sure that broadcasters who use THE PUBLIC airwaves serve THE PUBLIC interest. Large corporations serve only the interest of their shareholders.

The commission should not further deregulate the media, but instead should examine ways that would increase local ownership and foster a diversity of viewpoints.

Sincerely,
Alan Shockley
